

Artist's Profile

Lim Tong Xin is a Selangor-based artist whose interest in art was sparked in secondary school art classes. Her art encompasses a wide range of mediums such as artline pen, acrylic, oils, installation, printmaking, mixed media and batik. She believes in conveying her inner thoughts and subconscious through her art. Intricate details made with artline pen is one of her trademark techniques in art creation, other styles including irregular forms within her composition and the unconventional use of media. She is currently receiving her art education at Malaysian Institute of Art, and when she's not painting or working on a new project, she can be found playing badminton. She has been shortlisted twice in the annual Art Against AIDS Competition for two consecutive years, winning two consolation prizes in the same competition in 2020.
